Market Review

- The Philippine Stock Exchange Index (PSEI) was down month on month due to a host of various developments. The PSEI dropped by 1.8% and closed at 6,252.73. This close was towards the lower end of the trading range that has held for the past few months.
- Private placements on SM and SMPH took liquidity from the market and prevented a break of the resistance levels. Foreign outflows were slightly negative at -$29m. This is the fourth straight month of outflows.
- The Fed (Central Bank of the US) signaled that they could cut rates by less than expected. Meanwhile, the BSP looks poised to cut rates once again, with the next policy meeting at the end of August. Inflation in June was lower than expected, 1.4%. The difference in rate expectations led to weakness in the Peso towards the end of July.
- 2Q earnings started positively but this failed to lift the market higher. Banks were the first to announce earnings but were broadly in line or slight misses. Banks saw outflows in July after enjoying strong inflows for most of 2025.
- The PSEI continues to trade within the range of 6,200 to 6,500. Peso appreciation/depreciation could be a strong factor in the performance of the PSEI. Earnings announcements will also sway investors with sectors announcing strong earnings likely to see inflows.
