Market Review

- PHP government bond yields rose 0.45-1.16% across tenors, with 3-10Y underperforming. Overall, Peso fixed income returns were negative despite accruals.
- The main drivers of the move in bond yields were the conflict in the Middle East, and the disruption of oil shipments - upon which the Philippines is reliant on.
- The BSP is directly buying shorter term government securities (1-3Y) to provide liquidity and to maintain stability in the market.
- CPI for the month of March printed higher at 4.1% year-over-year vs. 2.4% prior and 3.8% expected. The BSP pointed out that monetary policy is not an effective tool to control supply-driven inflation. Hence, policymakers will consider core CPI for rate decisions.
- With uncertainty still high, we expect to see continued volatility in the local fixed income markets. Even if the conflict were to end soon, inflation could remain sticky.
