Market Review

The PSEi fell 4.6% in September to 5,679, its lowest level since June, as mounting macroeconomic concerns and foreign outflows hounded the market.

August CPI at 6.1% remains well above the BSP's target inflation range. Oil prices stubbornly above USD100/bbl in September pushed inflation expectations higher.

2026 growth forecasts were also below the government's target 3.5% to 4.5% range and added further pressure to the PHP as the USDPHP posted all-time highs (close to Php 63).

Foreign selling was a dominant headwind throughout the month as economic prospects dimmed. Philippine equities saw 16 trading sessions of net selling, with average daily outflow of more than USD 10 million.

Economic outlook remains uncertain given persistent inflation, while expected rate hikes may have little effect curbing prices. Domestic equity recovery may be capped by persistent macro concerns that impact the country's GDP.
